This examination paper contains two questions. Answer both questions.

Task one

You read this in your college magazine:

In next month's issue, we will be writing about difficulties people have when moving to a new home.

We want our readers to write to us giving an account of the day you moved into your current accommodation.

You decide to write about the day you moved into your current accommodation. Include any difficulties, misunderstandings or funny things that happened on the day.

Plan your article by making notes of the most important points and then draft at least one paragraph of your article. Then write the final article, making sure that you proofread it.
