The keys to a better performance

Explore the current grade 8 piano repertoire with Trinity Associate Chief Examiner, Peter Wild, who will be delving into the finer points on the performance of these pieces. This full-day seminar will include:

- Offering suggestions on interpretation and best practice
- Looking into piano technique and performance practice
- Discussion on all the Grade 8 piano pieces, including the alternatives pieces
- Performances of the pieces
- Live teaching sessions
- And importantly:
a sneak preview of the Piano 2015 repertoire

Peter Wild was born in Sydney, Australia. From an early age he showed a great attraction towards the piano and after his parents returned to England he began to develop a serious relationship with the instrument.

His studies continued at Chetham's School of Music in Manchester and subsequently at the Royal Academy of Music in London. His work as a pianist played an important part in his early career and performances include recitals for BBC Radio, Granada Television and on the South Bank of London. He is now based in Cheshire, where he is a much sought-after teacher and consultant in piano pedagogy. He is also the associate chief examiner for Trinity College London, as well as an international adjudicator. Peter can be heard performing on the Trinity CD recordings of the piano works and a number of his educational pieces for piano have also been published.
